

Hoosier
Backgammon
Club

January 1997

HBC's 1996
Player of the Year: *Don Woods

At the beginning of December, any one of five players had a chance to win Player of the Year. Butch Meese led most of year until November when Don took the lead. Sean Garber had the best chance to overtake Don on the final night of 1996, but could not muster the wins. In his second year playing with the club, Sean Garber finished second in the standings. This is the third time Don Woods was won Player of the Year. He also won in 1990 and 1993. The final standings are on Page 2. Jim Curtis returns to the Top Ten after being absent one year and Chuck Bower (Bloomington, IN) is new to the Top Ten.

On the Road Again....

On February 6th, HBC will start playing at Wildcat Brewing Company (formerly Bombay Bicycle Club), 9111 North Michigan Road. Although, we were treated well at Bench Warmers, the smoke and loud noise at times were too much and we were losing players.

NOTHING IS SACRED
Money Game, Black to play 5-4?
by Chuck Bower

A couple months ago, a new book was published by The Gammon Press: New Ideas in Backgammon by Kit Woolsey. This is a book of unique problems which were chosen because, in the view of the author (with the help of Hal Heinrich and the robot Jellyfish), they were misplayed by expert players in real matches. Kit's book has a lot in common with Bill Robertie's excellent two volume text Advanced Backgammon. If you enjoyed Robertie's books, you'll like New Ideas.

The above position is NOT from this new book, but it certainly could have been. In money play with a centered cube, how should Black play 5-4? If you've read any of my previous play articles, you will already be a step ahead. What are the candidate plays? Moving 13/8, 13/9 doesn't look too good, since it strips the midpoint AND leaves White with his/her full roll.

Moving 13/4x takes away half of White's roll and starts a good inner board point. On the downside, it leaves White 21 shots, which if hit, puts Black well behind in the race. Moving 6/1x, 8/4x is another candidate -- putting TWO of White's checkers on the bar -- but leaving two home board blots with 21 return shots.

A warning light should be flashing in your head reminding you that it is usually NOT a good idea to get into a blot hitting contest with an opponent who has a better board than you! In addition, the race was tied (158-158) before you rolled. That is a further caution to look for a better play.

When this problem came up in a money game against Jellyfish level-7, the above three choices were all that I saw. Imagine my surprise when Jellyfish told me that none of my candidates was correct! Jellyfish prefers 22/13. You've only made one point (and a valuable one at that) up to now, and Jellyfish says to break it! Barclay Cooke would be horrified!

NOTHING IS SACRED by Chuck Bower

One valuable lesson I've learned from the New Ideas book (and from playing against Jellyfish) is that NOTHING IS SACRED. This problem reduces to a least of evils choice. Leave lots of shots, risking falling behind in the race, or stack your checkers and count on some good pointmaking rolls in the future. Jellyfish level-6 rollouts say 22/13 results in a cubeless equity of -0.17 for Black, compared to -0.21 for hitting one blot and -0.31 for hitting two. (Sufficient rollouts were performed to be 95% confident that 22/15 is better than 13/4x, from a statistical standpoint.) Note that I did not ask Jellyfish to roll out 13/8, 13/9 since level-7 evaluation indicated that this was 0.17 worse than 22/13.

The biggest downside of playing 22/13 is the threat to your remaining checker. White can hit with 3's and 5's (and a few combo shots as well). Note that White's 3's are duplicated (24/21 being an alternative) and hitting with a 5 breaks the valuable 8-point and leaves extra shots with 6-2 and 4-4. You obviously shouldn't be thrilled with this move, but you must play the dice that you've thrown.
